Revolt and Desertions Hit Italian Army; Ethiopia Is Victorious on Two Fronts

ITALY SENDING PICKED TROOPS AS MARSHAL APPEALS FOR AID

American Oil Deal

JAPAN AND ITALY SEEN JOINING FORCES IN PACIFIC AREA

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—Summary of the war news reveals that far from swinging into a new advance in Ethiopia and the building of higher war fever at home, Mussolini and his Italian fascists are facing the most serious situation to date. Despatches from reliable sources in Europe and Ethiopia reveal the following significant facts:

Army deserters from Italy crossing into Austria reach into the thousands.

A mutiny involving hundreds of men in the ranks of the Alpine Regiment recently ordered to Ethiopia resulted in the deaths of two men and the wounding of many others.

Italian troops are once more concentrated near the French border.

Popular pressure for oil embargo against Italy is forcing Great Britain to openly support League collective measures tentatively dated for application on February 1.

An attempted advance of Italian troops in the Dolo region was repulsed with heavy losses.

Early rainfall in the mountainous zone where Italian troops are operating threatens complete rout of already severely harassed Italian irregular troops.

VIENNA, Jan. 9.—Further reports have arrived confirming earlier statements in the press here to the effect that 500 Alpine Regiment men had revolted on the eve of being shipped to the war area, several being killed and wounded. They are said to have refused to parade at Merano for East African orders.

HARAR, Jan. 9.—An official communique issued here today reports reconquest of the entire Tembien area north of Makale and a complete victory near Karsie in the south after a bitterly fought battle. Heavy loss of life among Italian white and native troops, and loss of huge stores of munitions and guns, was claimed. The Italians retreated when out-of-season rain deluged them, making heavy transportation virtually impossible.

Two Sections Over the Top In W.W. Drive

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—Merced and San Bernardino have gone over the top in the Western Worker Drive. Merced section achieved 106 per cent of its quota; San Bernardino fulfilled its quota 101 per cent.

These two small sections have shown the way. It is up to the rest of the section to get busy. Merced and San Bernardino are still working, by the way.

Monterey, Eureka, San Jose, Ekersfield, Porterville, Stockton, Tulare and Arizona have not even been heard from yet. There has been ample time to report. What's the matter?

JAPANESE INVASION A FACT

Japanese soldiers with guns and clubs standing guard outside the "autonomy government" headquarters at Tientsin in North China. The Japanese invasion of the North China provinces was carried out with only the thinnest pretense that it was a native "autonomy" move of the Chinese people. League sanctions have not been imposed against Japan because her avowed purpose is to prevent China from going Communist. These maneuvers of Japan cast a shadow but do not yet directly menace British and American financial interests. When they do, we will either hear the cry of sanctions or see an effort to launch a counter-invasion. Meanwhile, Japan shoulders the burden of ruthless suppression of the Chinese masses.

San Diego Unions Oust Labor Editor

ROGERS REMOVED FOR OPPOSING WILL OF THE MAJORITY

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 9.—Editor Albert G. Rogers of the San Diego Labor Leader was instructed to resign from office at a stormy meeting of the Federated Trades and Labor Council here Wednesday.

The call for his resignation came from Pres. Harry Steinmetz who read a long report indicting the editor for "consistently opposing the will of the majority of the Trades Council." The report called attention to the attacks on the local labor movement by the Chamber of Commerce and stated the Labor Leader had neither answered these attacks or the attacks now being made upon the West Coast marine unions.

E. C. TO EDIT

Steinmetz recommended that the Board of Administration be instructed to demand Rogers' resignation and suggested the Executive Committee edit a few issues until a new editor is found. Delegate Coffey of the Laborers' Union moved concurrence in the recommendation. Vice President Stutz ruled the motion out of order, but he was defeated 63 to 21. Delegate Dowell moved to "go into executive session" barring visitors and this also was defeated, 65 to 24.

REACTIONARIES WEAK

Reactionary delegates put up a bitter fight to smash the recommendation, but Steinmetz' motion finally carried by a vote of 50 to 24. Gue, deputy state labor commissioner, who had voted against the motion, attempted to change his vote so that he could bring the matter up at the next meeting. He was defeated and immediately asked for a copy of the minutes so that he could send it "immediately to the American Federation of Labor."

A letter was received from the Imperial Valley Central Labor Council thanking the local body for its sympathetic action in protesting illegal arrests and intimidation in the Valley.

Celebration Jan. 21 At L.A. Opera House Of Lenin Memorial

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6.—Enthusiastic re-dedication to the principles of Leninism, will be seen at the celebration of the Lenin Memorial here on Tuesday night, Jan. 21, at the Mason Opera House.

William Schneiderman, district organizer of the Communist Party, will be the keynote speaker of the evening to outline the tasks of the American working class along true Leninist lines.

An outstanding program of entertainment is also being arranged for the celebration. Admission will be 25 cents.

Half of the collection taken up at the mass meeting will go toward fulfilling the Los Angeles quota in the current Western Worker "war chest" drive.

Gen. Motors in New Huge Profit Surge

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Automobiles manufactured last year represents the greatest production since 1929, according to figures released from the statistical department of E. A. Pierce and Company.

General Motors rose from a deficit of 50 to 1000 net income available for dividends in 1932 to 150 to 1000 net dividends in 1935.

BLACKLIST IS OPERATED ON WPA PROJECT

ARMY OFFICERS GET THE PRIVILEGED RELIEF POSITIONS

Favoritism Charged

L.A. CHIEF ADMITS FILES OF RADICALS ARE BAN LIST

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—The WPA here has a "blacklist" in operation!

Previously denied, this admission was made here today by Colonel Donald H. Connolly, the War Department's "gift" to the County WPA Administration.

The "blacklist" is of "agitators" and is in use to keep "certain persons" from obtaining jobs or even entering the WPA Administration Building, Connolly admitted.

Previously Connolly has denied that any discrimination exists against workers active in organizing WPA workers into the Public Works and Unemployed Union, although many cases of such discrimination exist.

When pressed by militant grievance committees of the PWUU as to certain cases of "blacklisting," Connolly has given ground, admitting that the workers have the right to organize and reinstating workers fired from the projects for organizational activities.

OPEN FAVORITISM

Connolly made this startling admission in answer to charges of favoritism in personnel made by Rheba Crawford Spilvalo, evangelist and former state director of social work.

"Major Lee S. Dillon, personnel director, has given many of the best jobs to retired army officers who are also drawing pensions of $200 a month," Mrs. Spilvalo said. "It's an outrage that taxpayers and citizens should be kept from entering a government building."

Mrs. Spilvalo, who has long been a factor in the Republican political machine in California, thus forced the revealing, through a political squabble, of a condition which the unemployed have protested against for months.

OFFICIALS DUCK

Connolly and State WPA Administrator McLaughlin left for Salt Lake City to attend a regional conference of works officials called by Robert H. Hinckley, regional FERA chief. Rumors persist that the army officers in "command" of the WPA here are to be ousted, possibly at tomorrow's meeting.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—Work orders for 9000 men and 4000 women will be written during the next week by WPA officials, it was announced here today.

Roy W. Pilling, county relief director, announced the firing of 600 administrative workers and closed five of the 24 district SERA offices. Once numbering 7000, the administrative staff has now 2412 men and women, Pilling said.

Assistant Administrator Harold L. Pomeroy revealed that although 23,747 cases have been closed during the past three months, the SERA has authorized relief for 33,819 new workers.

Polish Prisoners Released Under New Amnesty Law

WARSAW, Poland.—Amnesty released 20,000 Polish former prisoners, Friday, under the broadest Amnesty act yet passed in Poland. In addition to freeing many prisoners, it commuted all death penalties to life terms.

The prisoners were registered as unemployed. Steps are being taken to provide work for them. They also received cash and food allowances as well as railroad tickets to carry them back home.

East Coast Liner Leaves S. F. As Scabs Replace Union Men

The Sailors' Fight IS AT A CRITICAL STAGE

It is time that the members of the Sailors' Union took stock of the serious situation arising out of their fight for the six-hour day on steamships, and the answer of the shipowners in practically locking out the men. The shipowners are trying to create a split in the Maritime Federation, and think they can do it by isolating the steamship men from the rest of the maritime crafts. The sailors and all maritime workers must be on their guard against this maneuver. Everything the maritime workers have gained in the past, no matter how small, has been by the unity and solidarity established through the Maritime Federation. It is only by this unity that the maritime workers have weathered every crisis, every attack of the shipowners, and come through stronger even when they did not win all their demands.

UNITY MUST BE PRESERVED

There is a great danger that this unity will be weakened if any single craft will try to fight alone, without using the power and authority of the whole Maritime Federation to assist them in developing mass pressure for the winning of their just demands. The Emergency Convention of the Maritime Federation last November unanimously adopted a program of action which would avoid the dangers of isolated, individual actions of any craft. The Convention realized that such actions alone could not effectively carry on the fight for major demands and would involve and jeopardize all the maritime unions.

The Maritime Federation can only give effective support to the sailors if a common program is worked out by consultation with all the maritime unions. The sailors' fight is NOT just a sailors' question. Any such agreement ignores all the lessons and experiences of the maritime workers and their struggles of the past two years; it is because they realized that "an injury to one is an injury to all" that they built the Maritime Federation. The shipowners realize this, and they are speculating on alleged differences among the maritime unions to launch an attack not only against the sailors, but all maritime workers.

IMPORTANCE OF UNIFIED ACTION

The best example of how important it is to have COLLECTIVE ACTION AND LEADERSHIP is the latest development on the S.S. Pennsylvania, which sailed from San Francisco with a crew of imported scabs. Had the action for the West Coast scale been carried out after consultation with the other crafts, and a committee set up representing all the crafts involved, we could not see a situation where the ship could sail with scabs alongside union members of licensed groups. Had this fight been conducted under such leadership as provided for by the recent Maritime Federation Convention, important concessions could have been won for the seamen, laying the basis for centering the fight on the East Coast for a National agreement. What is needed now is COLLECTIVE LEADERSHIP, not DRIFTING.

WHAT MUST BE DONE

What are the immediate next steps that the situation demands? First, to prepare all the maritime unions to guard against any further attempts to operate ships out of San Francisco harbor with scabs, and fight for the reinstatement of the Pennsylvania crew without discrimination. Second, to take up an energetic fight for

Sailors to Aid Eastern Seamen In Wage Fight

RESOLUTION CALLS FOR MARITIME FEDERATION SUPPORT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—To bolster the spirit of East Coast seamen into taking action on the Atlantic Coast to gain the repudiation of the agreement signed arbitrarily by the Atlantic District Committee, the membership of the Sailors' Union of the Pacific passed the following resolution by a unanimous vote of some 350 members present:

WHEREAS, The wage scale and working conditions provided for under the proposed 1936 agreement are far below that of the West Coast seamen, and

WHEREAS, The resentment on the part of the East Coast seamen against this proposed agreement will result in protest job

BULLETIN

PORTLAND, Jan. 9.—As a result of the confusion arising in the minds of many members of the maritime crafts and with the feeling that the solidarity of the Maritime Federation is in danger, the Portland branch of the Sailors' Union adopted a resolution requesting the Columbia River District Council of the Federation to immediately call a mass meeting of all affiliated crafts to clear up the befuddled steamshiper rift by electing a rank and file committee from crafts involved to maintain harmony and confidence. The resolution asks that this proposal also be referred to the Headquarters' Branch for action.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—Although the steamshiper situation remained ominously calm along the Pacific Coast, the San Francisco waterfront was aroused to a pitch when a shipment of scabs were brought in by train from Los Angeles and placed aboard the inter-coastal liner, Pennsylvania, which was laying crewless at pier 35.

Originally manned by East Coast seamen upon her arrival here, the

PARLIAMENT LEFTISTS IN NEW LINEUP

GROUP TO BE ORGANIZED AROUND GALLACHER, COMMUNIST

(Federated Press)

Formation of a new left opposition bloc in the British House of Commons seems to have begun. The bloc will apparently coalesce around leftist labor M. P.s, Independent Labor Party representatives and William Gallacher, Communist, chosen from "red Glasgow" in the recent elections.

The election of Gallacher, over combined opposition from Conservatives and the official Labor Party, created something of a sensation in Britain and is causing no little concern to canny conservative leaders. Though several years ago a Communist was elected on the Labor Party ticket, this is the first time a Communist has ever occupied a seat in Parliament as such.

"I would rather see the government get 80 seats less than the Communists get one," a conservative leader is reported to have said.

The significance of Gallacher's election lies in the fact that his presence and the sentiment which sent him to Parliament will stimulate formation of a militant leftist bloc within the more staid Labor opposition and will stiffen the ranks of I.L.P. members such as James Maxton, some of whose supporters have criticized him as being content with parliamentary fireworks.

The Scottish city of Glasgow, along with South Wales, has for long been a center of revolutionary activity in Great Britain.

NOW POKE HIM IN AND SLAM THE LID DOWN

Eight months ago, Paul Scharrenberg was expelled by unanimous vote of the Sailors' Union on the Pacific Coast. Branded as one of the most infamous labor betrayers of all time, he still had cronies of his own calibre in the top officialdom of the A. F. of L. who were ready to defy the democratic vote of the rank and file. He was sneaked into an alleged Office Workers' Union, retained as secretary of the California State Federation of Labor, and is now in Washington openly trying to split the Sailors' Union. He wants the Pacific Coast locals expelled so that new charters can be issued for a fink union under his domination.

At the time of his expulsion, the Western Worker published this cartoon. We publish it again now with a new title.

BROAD ANTI-WAR STRUGGLE BUILT AT CLEVELAND MEET

BROWDER AND PORTER SPEAK ON MOTION TO FORM UNITED FRONT FEDERATION.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 7.—Great enthusiasm marked the endorsement of the League appointment of a joint committee empowered to do everything possible "to create a truly all-embracing federation for active, practical cooperation of all forces working against the threats of war and fascism."

The appointment of the committee by the Third Congress of the American League Against War and Fascism, meeting here in a three-day session ending Sunday, was hailed as a profound step towards greatly expanding the united front in this country against the twin capitalist blights—war and fascism.

Among those endorsing the step were official observers from the Socialist Party, a spokesman for the Communist Party and one for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, Local 22.

BARBUSSE TRIBUTE

Saturday night Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist Party, paid glowing tribute to the memory of Henri Barbusse, the originator of the First World Congress Against War and Fascism. Browder was introduced at the memorial meeting by Dr. Harry F. Ward, national chairman of the League, as "the only American who acted as Barbusse's pallbearer and spoke at his graveside."

The resolution was introduced by Professor Robert Morss Lovett in the name of the national executive committee of the League. Paul Porter, national labor secretary of the Socialist Party in supporting the broad united front move declared:

"The Socialist Party believes that an effective fight against war and fascism requires a broad federation of all peace-loving and anti-fascist forces, centered about the trade unions as the basic organizations. While all possible allies are needed in this fight it must be recognized that the organized workers, especially those in the war industries and transportation, occupy the front line trenches of the peace army. Stopping war work means stopping war!"

His words were answered by cheering and shouting from the 2000 delegates assembled from all parts of the United States.

TEN POINTS

Earl Browder stepped to the microphone to state the Communist Party's endorsement of the resolution and shouting and cheering broke out, instantaneously and with intense fervor. He declared the Communist Party is glad to support the proposal and that: "This step should be the beginning towards a more complete unity in the not far distant future."

A ten-point program was adopted comprising the stopping of work on and transportation of war materials; exposure of U. S. Government's war preparations; resist militarization of the youth; support the disarmament proposals made to the League by the Soviet Union; demand effective neutrality legislation; join all international action against war and assist colonial people to resist exploitation; demonstrate constantly the relation between war and fascism; oppose all fascist developments; fight gag legislation; oppose all legislation designed to prevent soldiers from receiving literature in behalf of any program designed to secure peace, freedom and justice.

The Veterans' Commission comprising many American Legion members presented a resolution which was adopted scoring the red-baiters within the Legion as tools of Hearst who is trying to "make storm troops out of veterans."

WPA Workers in Job Safeguarding Young

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6.—WPA workers were assigned to duty at 325 dangerous school crossings to safeguard children from traffic hazards here today. The workers will go on their posts beginning Wednesday morning.

This project for white-collar workers was finally wrung from the WPA after an intensive campaign by the Parent-Teacher Association.

Ovation

A tremendous ovation greeted Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist Party of the U. S. A., when he spoke before the third national congress of the American League Against War and Fascism at Cleveland. Browder paid tribute in his speech to Henri Barbusse, French writer and one of the founders of the League, who died last year.

action demanding the West Coast scale, and

WHEREAS, This action can be most effective on the East Coast due to the necessity of establishing democracy in the East Coast branches of the I.S.U. and the need for greater solidarity with the longshoremen of the Eastern ports, and

WHEREAS, There is a tendency among the seamen to take job action only on the West Coast, due to the fear of being discriminated against and being expelled by the East Coast officials of the I.S.U.

WHEREAS, We realize the unity between the East and West Coast Maritime Unions is of prime importance if we are to maintain our unions and go forward in our struggle for one National agreement for the entire Marine industry,

THEREFORE BE IT:
RESOLVED, That we, the members of the Sailors' Union of the Pacific go on record as endorsing such job action against the proposed agreement, and be it further

RESOLVED, That we will give every support possible in defeating any attempt to replace crews taking such actions, and be it further

RESOLVED, That we request the Maritime Federation of the Pacific to go on record as refusing to handle any ships coming from the East Coast with crews that have replaced men taking job action on the East Coast to gain West Coast wages and conditions; and be it further

RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be sent to the East Coast branches of the I.S.U. and I.L.A. and all District Councils of the Maritime Federation.

Unidentified Worker Killed in Fall

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6.—The traffic death of "Richard Roe," an unidentified worker from the Unemployment Relief Camp at Pogi, at North Gaffey and Anaheim sts., San Pedro, was reported here today. The worker fell from a truck used by Unit II of the camp, striking his head on the pavement and suffering a fractured skull. He was instantly killed.

BOSTON.—(FP)—A strike is over when business is back to normal, asserted Judge Brogan of Boston in a ruling hostile to the Theatrical Stage Employees' Union, which has been picketing the Park Theater, a burlesque house, for 11 months. The Massachusetts Federation of Labor and the Boston Central Labor Union are assisting the union in an appeal to the state supreme court.

crew of the Pennsylvania struck in protest of the resigning of the 1935 agreement by Eastern officials without first consulting the rank and file of the Eastern Branches of the ISU.

The crew raised the demands for West Coast scale of wages and West Coast articles to prevent their being victimized upon arrival in Eastern ports.

SCABS PACK BOOKS

The scabs eluded seamen who were picketing the bus station by getting off a mile south of the City, rushing to the pier in trucks. The scab-herders did not fail to overlook the fact that several gangs of longshoremen were working a ship on the same dock at which the Pennsylvania lay. To avoid any disruption of their plan to run the scabs aboard, the vessel which the longshoremen were working was shifted to another pier.

Once the 46 scabs were aboard, the lines were chopped and the ship was allowed to drift out to anchor. Once out there a launch brought out the remainder of a scab crew and the vessel sailed.

What has aroused the wrath of all West Coast maritime workers is the reliable report that all the scabs had been issued "union books" under the name of the International Seamen's Union, by Lars Turner.

EASTERN SEAMEN RETALIATE

Lars Turner is one of two "organizers" appointed only recently by the ISU Executive Board. He was removed from his post as office clerk in the Sailors' Union by the membership as a result of his refusal to carry out the wishes of the majority.

In rebuttal to this latest move the former members of the Pennsylvania elected a committee to go to San Pedro at once to urge the crew of California, of the same company, to walk off in protest.

The crew of the Santa Paula which is laying at San Francisco is also planning to walk off the ship in demand of West Coast scale of wages. The crews of three Luckenbach ships and one Calmar Line are also off on the same demand.

SOVIETS PLAN FILM COLONY ON BLACK SEA

U. S. S. R. TO CHALLENGE
FILM MONOPOLISTS

MOSCOW, U.S.S.R., Jan. 8.—The Soviet government has set aside approximately $25,000,000 for the creation of a "Soviet Hollywood" on the Black Sea.

The congress of film workers held here recently greeted the idea with enthusiasm and pledged its full support to the project. Shumiat'sky's visit to Hollywood in the U. S. A. gave birth to the plan.

The Black Sea area is climatologically ideal for the establishment of a film producing colony. It possesses a wide range of natural scenery unequalled even in the Hollywood area.

British and American experts probably will be contracted to install equipment and introduce technique of the most advanced nature. Russian workers will be trained to operate the latest cameras, lights and laboratory equipment.

Russia, it is predicted, will enter the world film market which at the present time is dominated mainly by British and American interests.

THE SCAB NAVY AFLOAT AGAIN

Running scabs aboard the S.S. Pennsylvania recalls the bitter days of 1934 when the Diana Dollar (above) was the floating scab hotel in San Francisco harbor. The gains of that hard fought struggle must be defended and new important gains won. This can only be accomplished by unified, well disciplined action on the part of all the maritime unions, which are equally affected and equally concerned in every waterfront development.

owners of steamshipowner Whitney Olsen, discharged the entire crew and laid the vessel up.

One of the first to give consent to the six-hour day, it is assumed that pressure from the larger companies had been brought to bear.

The tying up of this vessel makes a total of fifty-nine steamshipowner crews laid off by the enforced lock-out.

CHARTER THREAT LOOMS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 11.—While the shipowners, make pretense of playing a waiting game on the Pacific Coast, all the forces of reaction are being gathered here in what is unquestionably one supreme effort on the part of the operators and their allies to smash the maritime unions and in particular the Maritime Federation of the Pacific.

Sounding his arrival in advance by a lengthy letter of tirade and abuse against the Sailors' Union of the Pacific and Harry Bridges, Paul Scharrenberg, deposed member of the Sailors' Union, demanded an open "declaration of war" against the Pacific Coast Locals of the International Seamen's Union.

Scharrenberg has the backing of not only the reactionary executive board of the ISU, but he also has the full support of Wm. Green, AFL leader, who is reported to be scheduled to make an appearance at the national seamen's convention which opens here on January 13.

ATTACK PLANNED

His vituperous attack upon the West Coast ISU branches coincides timely with the plans of the shipowners "to move in on the Maritime Federation." His proposal to split the unity of the maritime workers comes exactly when national unity is highly imperative to resist the savage attacks of the shipowners upon the little gains that were made by the workers after a year and a half of bitter struggle.

The plan—whether they will dare to put it in effect depends largely upon the amount of nation-wide protest which would surely follow—calls for the "revocation of West Coast charters and reorganization of the branches."

The operators through their representative, Elisha Hansen, have openly admitted they are waiting to see if the ISU convention will go through with the threat raised by the spokesman of the reactionary ISU officialdom. Efforts to recruit government aid in "protecting the Maritime Federation" by the shipowners fell through when the Department of Justice was forced to acknowledge that there were not any "justifiable grounds" to act upon.

WOULD LIKE TO

The threat of the operators to "resort to vigilantism" as expressed by Elisha Hansen, is considered more than an idle threat by thoughtful West Coast rank and file leaders.

MOVE FOR SPLIT FOILED

It is significant to note that the ISU executive board has established a branch office in San Francisco to "insure proper contact"—with the shipowners?—A member of the crew of the President Coolidge was expelled from the Marine Firemen's Union as a result of his letter to Wm. Green, requesting a separate charter for electricians, plumbers and deck engineers because they are of a "higher mentality than the oilers, water-tenders and wipers." The man who was a plumber on the Dollar Line ship, asserted to rank and file members that he had "over a hundred and fifty signatures" for the charter.

Although vigilant maritime workers have failed to unearth any to date, a strong report has it that cards pledging "loyalty to the International Seamen's Union" are being circulated along the San Francisco waterfront.

DENOUNCED BY ENTIRE COAST

It will be recalled that Scharrenberg was expelled from the Sailors' Union of the Pacific by a popular referendum vote after he had been summoned to trial on several counts.

As Scharrenberg himself states, "I was the most unpopular in the union and my activities resulted in my expulsion."

Seamen who heard Scharrenberg's plea for a "war" during the arbitration hearings and who took part in the Scharrenberg Federation-wrecking-inspired tanker strike agreed by an almost unanimous vote that Scharrenberg was the most "unpopular man in the union."

San Francisco longshoremen who were forced to pack a company union book for years under the rottenness of conditions remember well Scharrenberg's complicity in the notorious "blue book union."

All delegates to the Convention have been instructed to fight for the ratification of the Scharrenberg expulsion.

Effective organization of unemployed will aid in maintaining union scales of pay. Demand that your union officials support such work.

The greatest murderers of all are those who never hear the sound of guns. This smiling figure is General Yoshiyuki Kawashima, recently appointed minister of war in the Japanese cabinet. UNEMPLOYMENT INCREASING IN EUROPEAN NATIONS

PARIS, France.—(FP)—Startling increases in unemployment among professional people in nearly every European country have been recorded in the last few years, a report of the International Labor Office at Geneva, made public in Paris, discloses.

In Poland, the figures show, the number of jobless professional workers has reached a total of 570,000. In Switzerland 30 per cent of the engineers and architects are without work.

Most serious, the survey found, was that long periods of unemployment and the rationalization of production has resulted in the formation of a large group of technically trained engineers and chemists who would find it difficult to readjust themselves to the process of work even should the economic crisis pass.

S. P. Convention to Be Held in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Jan. 6.—Cleveland has been selected for the Socialist Party's 1936 convention, starting May 23, it was announced by the Socialist Party National Executive Committee, Friday.

Norman Thomas, the party's candidate for president in 1928 and 1932 said he still has an open mind on the question of running again.

The peace policy of the Soviet Union is against every attempt to enslave racial minorities.

impossible. Roads in many places have been washed out.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The anti-fascist press here has exposed the rushing of negotiations to contract to supply Italy with oil, alleging that it will be supplied from the American-owned Nitag refinery situated in Nazi Germany. Hasse was due to the necessity for completing the deal before the League acts on embargo on oil as part of policy of collective sanctions, expected to be applied before the end of the month.

ROME, Jan. 8.—Attack on Pres. Roosevelt's reference to fascist dictatorships and their aggressive imperialism aims continues in the Italian semi-official newspapers. Denials of revolt among regular troops ordered to Ethiopia are being issued, together with denunciations of stories of "Red Cross bombings" as hostile to anti-Italian propaganda.

More troops leave for East Africa daily, in response to Marshal Badoglio's requests, which are due to the illness and demoralization of troops already through their baptism of fire and extraordinary hardships entailed in Ethiopia.

Pointing to the reports that the British have concentrated nearly 80,000 fresh troops in Egypt and Libya, and have furthermore completed naval plans jointly with the French naval strategy board, government spokesmen have announced that 100,000 additional troops will be sent to East Africa.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 8.—Italian diplomats have arrived in Tokyo, giving rise to statements that Italy plans recognition of Manchukuo and the working out of close cooperation between Italy and Japan in economic and military spheres. Both nations are now outside League control, and it is likely that Italy will support the Japanese disregard of League authority over Pacific affairs, including the problem of mandated islands which will soon come before the League for reconsideration.

In the meantime, student activity against the Japanese policy of creating "independent" buffer states in North China is increasing, in spite of resistance by Kuomintang reactionary officials.

Governor Ely Tries To Squash Low Rents

the relief of the sailors, developing mass pressure on the relief authorities to break down the policy of discrimination against sailors, and getting the support of the other unions to work out ways and means of organizing some immediate relief. Third, organize a publicity campaign to reach the entire labor movement exposing the shipowners' move to lock out the steamshipmen and to bring in scab crews to replace sailors fighting for the West Coast scale. Fourth, the Sailors' Union should enforce the job action resolution adopted at the Maritime Federation Convention, and take a referendum vote to place the further conduct of the fight for their demands in the hands of the Maritime Federation, with the understanding that no final decision or settlement be reached without the approval of the membership of the Sailors' Union.

If the sailors want to prevent any further attacks of the shipowners, who are now encouraged to go further than they ever dared to go before, it is time that they realized the seriousness of the situation. It is dangerous to believe that this is a question that can be settled by the sailors alone. The whole Maritime Federation is already involved, and must be mobilized to prevent any repetition of the Pennsylvania incident. By working out a common program COLLECTIVELY with the representatives of the other crafts and unions, through the Maritime Federation, such action would be the most effective means of developing mass pressure on the shipowners for the sailors' demands, and it would above all insure the strengthening of the unity of the maritime unions which is the only means by which all seamen and longshoremen can jointly defend their common interests. The sooner the members of the Sailors' Union realize this, the better.

Silicosis Victims In Wall St. Probe

NEW YORK.—(FP)—Investigation of the Gauley Bridge silicosis tragedy in West Virginia, where 476 workers are already dead and 1500 dying—"the greatest industrial catastrophe in American history"—will be called for when Congress convenes by Rep. Vito Marcantonio of New York.

Threads lead from Gauley Bridge to the Wall Street offices of some of the nation's biggest banking and business concerns. The People's Press, new weekly tabloid, has revealed. In an effort to accumulate huge profits at breakneck speed, all safety devices were eliminated and workers were forced to labor in an atmosphere filled with minute particles of silica dust.

Texas Farmer Families Stranded Mine Workers' Union Red-Baiters Lose Artists Congress

HUNTSVILLE, Tex.—(EP)—D. B. James, poverty-stricken tenant farmer, was electrocuted at the Texas state penitentiary for stabbing his common-law wife to death. The murder was the result of a suicide pact which James, himself, failed to keep.

Several years ago, John W. Brady, ex-judge of the appellate court, stabbed his mistress to death. He was given a 3-year sentence, a soft job in the prison, and a pardon after having served a little more than a year of his term.

NEW YORK.—(EP)—A protest against the stranding of 2100 families at the site of the Ft. Peck, Mont., dam has been sent to WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins by Chairman David Lasser of the Workers' Alliance of America. The men, with their families, were induced to leave their homes to work on the dam. Now that operations are over, county authorities refuse the families relief on the grounds they are non-residents, Lasser states.

CLEVELAND.—(EP)—A promise that the United Mine Workers of America will not split away from the American Federation of Labor despite efforts of "certain people" to create conditions that would force the U.M.W.A. to withdraw from the federation was voiced in Cleveland by Adolph Gerner, special representative of John L. Lewis.

Returning from a survey tour of midwest cities, Gerner declared that the Committee for Industrial Organization is not "going to interfere with the rights of autonomy of any international unions."

Gerner is in Cleveland preparing for the mass meeting Jan. 19, sponsored by the Cleveland Auto Council organization committee, at which Lewis will speak.

CLEVELAND.—(EP)—Locals 867 and 639 of the Painters' Union at Cleveland voted down proposed constitutional amendments to expel Communists from membership, after speakers had asserted the proposals were undemocratic and would split the ranks of labor.

NEW YORK.—(EP)—With the theme of "repression of art in America" a major concern, the first American Artists Congress will meet at New York City, Feb. 14. Several anti-Fascist artists will describe how their works were attacked or destroyed by police and vigilante groups.

"LIBERALS" PLAN PURGE OF PARTIES

POLICE CHIEF ON BOARD FOR PROGRESSIVE LAWS

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal. Jan. 6.—Seeking to "liberalize and purge the two major parties of political dross," a group of men from five Southern California counties met here today to "coordinate liberal groups, including Townsendites, Epics, Utopians, and other independent factions."

No third party is planned, and no support of any third party will be forthcoming, the group decided.

Instead, it will "seek coordination of the larger liberal and progressive groups in the state in favor of forward-looking social and economic legislation."

How "liberal" the group is may be seen in the election to the advisory board of Sterling Oswald, police chief of El Centro. Henry Roller of Colton, city councilman, was elected chairman of the group. Other advisory board members include E. H. Ballard, Santa Ana; J. P. Farrell, Colton; and Ed Isaac, San Diego.

ILD PLANS BIG BAZAAR AT L.A. JAN. 24, 25, 26

AFFAIR WILL OPEN WITH A BIG DINNER ON FRIDAY NIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—The International Labor Defense, District 14, will hold a bazaar at the Workers' Center, 2706 Brooklyn ave., on January 24, 25, and 26.

Proceeds from the affair will aid the I.L.D. in financing its work during 1936. Every day in the year, the I.L.D. is called upon to defend workers whom the employing class is attempting to frame for militant activities.

Examples of the work being done by the I.L.D. on a nation and world-wide scale include the famous Angelo Herndon and Scottsboro cases. In California the I.L.D. recently won a victory when Archie Brown and three other members of the Ship Sealers' Union were freed of first degree murder charges in a San Francisco court. The "not guilty" verdict in the trial of 25 Juneau miners and longshoremen in Alaska was another I.L.D. victory.

These activities take money—lots of it.

A dinner of a special type will be served on Friday night, the first night of the bazaar. On Saturday evening there will be dancing and other entertainment. The grand auction will be held Sunday night.

All kinds of merchandise will be sold at bargain prices during the three-day affair. All friends and sympathizers are urged to attend the bazaar to help the I.L.D. carry on during 1936.

CALIFORNIA LAW SEEN AS MENACE IN HEIRESS' SUIT

STERILIZATION CAN BE POLITICAL WEAPON UNDER LAW

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—Despite the difficulty of perceiving fact through the forest of sensationalism surrounding the Hewitt case, one ominous aspect looms unmistakably: the danger of the weapon of sterilization in the hands of the entrenched and potentially fascist class. As it has under the Hitler regime, sterilization can become an effective means for dealing with political enemies, and although in itself an apparently innocent social practice, as such becomes an appalling menace.

Anne Hewitt, 21-year-old heiress, is suing her mother, Mrs. Marvon McCarter, for subjecting her without her knowledge, to a sterilization operation. She claims that the terms of her father's will make her mother heir to her share of the estate were she to die childless. The doctors, who admit the operation, claim that Miss Hewitt is feeble-minded and that it was not only justifiable but advisable. Whatever the extenuating circumstances in this particular instance, the possibility of such an operation being performed in secrecy and under the protection of California's sterilization law, is startlingly like the use of state-supervised sterilization in Nazi Germany. The danger is emphasized in the Hearst papers where the three first pages are devoted to a sensational playing up of the Hewitt case and the editorial page to an attack on "crime and Communism."

The following is an open letter addressed by Jack J. Moore, business agent of the Fish Cannery Workers' Union of San Pedro, to J. W. Buzzell, of the Los Angeles Labor Council. Written at a time when labor's arch betrayers, those alleged union officials such as William Green, Edward Vandeleur and Buzzell, are seeking to weaken the power of labor and play them into the hands of the employers under pretense of "opposing Communism," we regard this letter as having a message for every union man in California.

An Open Letter to Mr. J. W. Buzzell

December 30, 1935.

Dear Sir and Brother:

You have accused me of "subordinating the interest of the Union" of which I am business agent (that is, the Fish Cannery Workers' Union, formerly A. F. of L. Local 18656) "to the interests of some other labor organization." You have demanded, in the name of William Green, that I be expelled from the Local for this reason, and because "you are convinced I am a communist."

Your instruction was voted down three times by the members of the Local; because they know that the Union has existed since October, 1933, without making progress. It was only in the last six months, since I came into the organization, that it grew from 60 members to 1200; effected working agreements with all the cannerys on Terminal Island, and spread out to Wilmington and Long Beach.

Soviet Pictures Now Available for Church, Club, Home

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Pictures on Soviet life can now be shown in every organization, union local, branch club, church or home throughout the United States. The Friends of the Soviet Union has produced a series of filmstrips on the Soviet Union and will continue to produce such strips each month.

Each strip contains about 130 different still pictures and titles. It is an actual series of excellent Soviet pictures of 35mm fireproof stock. A complete discussion outline, or speaker's outline is supplied with each strip.

All interested should communicate with the American Friends of the Soviet Union, room 408, 824 Broadway, New York City.

Du Pont Family Is Financial Mainstay—Contribute $23,500

The war mongers are the puppeteers who dance the American Liberty League on their strings!

This was revealed when the news leaked out that the huge Du Pont munitions dynasty is the chief backer of the league.

The facts came out when Du Ponts were listed in a report of expenditures filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives.

REPUBLICANS PROFIT

Another report filed by the Republican National Committee shows that the same war mongers were chief contributors to the Republican Party during the past year. The Du Ponts are closely allied to the Baronial House of Morgan. Together with the Morgans, they control General Motors Corporation, whose profits have increased three hundred per cent in the last three years.

Members of the Du Pont family contributed $23,500 and loaned $114,500 to the American Liberty League which has been leading the big business drive against the living standards and liberties of the American people.

Other contributors included leading figures in the far flung Du Pont-Morgan empire, which controls a vast proportion of the corporate wealth of the country.

Amendment Sought to Forestall Bonus Offer As Relief Measure

Congressman Marcantonio Leads Fight to Protect Unemployed Veterans

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 9.—An amendment to the bonus bill to prevent the subtraction of relief allowance or work relief wages of unemployed war veterans from bonus payments was offered by Congressman Vito Marcantonio.

"Anybody who is sincerely for the bonus has got to vote for my amendment," Marcantonio said announcing his plan, "otherwise, the bonus payment may turn out to be just another joker to the unemployed veterans."

Under the existing set-up, every recipient of relief must qualify by showing he is without any resources and if he gets on relief and the officials discover he has the least bit—even a trifling insurance policy—he is immediately cut off.

It is estimated that approximately 45 per cent of the nation's former soldiers in the "war to end war" are unemployed.

FILLING STATIONS WORKERS URGE INDUSTRIAL UNIONS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—The Filling Station Employees Union No. 19570 has taken the initiative in furthering the industrial organizing of the 25,000,000 unorganized American workers as outlined by John L. Lewis, by adopting the following resolution:

WHEREAS, it has become glaringly obvious to all who are interested in the growth and development of organized labor that the present craft basis of organization practiced by the American Federation of Labor is inefficient to take care of the vital needs of the three and one half million members of the A. F. of L. and, furthermore, makes no provision to organize an additional twenty-five million or more industrial workers; and

WHEREAS, there has been recently set up a national committee to promote the principle and practice of Industrial Unionism within the American Federation of Labor, headed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America and composed of several progressive and nationally known labor leaders; and

WHEREAS, we, the members of the Filling Station Employees' Union No. 19570 do realize our vital need of the industrial type of union as opposed to the craft type, for the purpose of assuring ourselves of the just returns for our labor and of a decent standard of living for our families;

NOW, THEREFORE, Be It Resolved, that we do officially and unanimously go on record in favor of Industrial Unionism, not only for ourselves, but for all the workers of America, organized and unorganized, whether affiliated to the American Federation of Labor or independent; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that we do hereby instruct any and all of our delegates and representatives of all conventions, councils, committees, boards, etc. and our officials and individual members, to work diligently and conscientiously toward the end of realizing the Industrial type of Union within the American Federation of Labor, and to submit a resolution to the Central Labor Council requesting that concrete steps be taken immediately to organize a local Committee for Industrial Unionism which will affiliate to and cooperate with the National Committee for Industrial Unionism.

L. A. JOBLESS CALL PROTEST MASS MEETING

90,000 TO DEMONSTRATE AGAINST STARVATION

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—The Public Works and Unemployed Union is calling a mass meeting to be held Friday, Jan. 10, at 8 p. m., at Angelus Hall, 1956 East First street, to protest the drastic cuts that have been announced by the relief administration. Able speakers will address the meeting.

The thousands of unemployed in Los Angeles are now receiving a food budget that cannot meet the steadily rising food prices. It does not provide an adequate diet to maintain good health. When the announced cuts are added up, they amount to about 40 per cent. This will mean actual starvation for the 90,000 California families on relief.

BERLIN.—Following the disastrous slump of the coal mining industry in the Saar after the return of this territory to Germany, the Nazi government yesterday issued a decree nationalizing the Saar coal mines.

The measure is regarded as a last attempt to save the mining industry of the Saar basin. According to an authoritative statement made by a high official of the commissariat for the return of the Saar, employment among the Saar miners has dropped from 75,000 to 45,000. Even the latter number is far in excess of the real economic demand, stated the official, who also admitted that prices of all food products in the Saar have sharply increased since its return to Germany.

Austrian Fascists Searchlight Plant Storm Troops "Autonomous" Hopei Saar Coal Mines

VIENNA.—Measures for reorganization of militarized fascist organizations into a state fascist militia are officially announced by the Austrian war ministry. A special command consisting of army officers has been set up to carry through the reorganization. The ministry points out that "the officers of the Austrian army will participate actively in building up the fascist militia."

As a result of the new measures the fascist armed detachments, which number 100,000 men, will become actually a part of the army, whose number according to the Treaty of St. Germain should not exceed 30,000.

MOSCOW.—The L. M. Kaganovich Searchlight Plant in Moscow was officially opened recently. This is the first plant in the Soviet Union specially built for the construction of searchlights and searchlight stations. It will meet the growing demands of the country for searchlights required by aviation, railroad and water transport, urban illumination and agriculture.

The plant has been doing preliminary work for the last five months, producing a daily output of 200,000 rubles. Excellent dwelling houses and a restaurant have been built for the workers.

BERLIN.—The second reserves of Storm Troops have been dissolved by order of the chief of staff of the troops. These reserves consisted for the most part of ex-soldiers above the age of 45.

San Pedro Cannery Workers Demand Democratic Union

The following is an open letter addressed by Jack J. Moore, business agent of the Fish Cannery Workers' Union of San Pedro, to J. W. Buzzell, of the Los Angeles Labor Council. Written at a time when labor's arch betrayers, those alleged union officials such as William Green, Edward Vandeleur and Buzzell, are seeking to weaken the power of labor and play them into the hands of the employers under pretense of "opposing Communism," we regard this letter as having a message for every union man in California.

An Open Letter to Mr. J. W. Buzzell

December 30, 1935.

Dear Sir and Brother:

You have accused me of "subordinating the interest of the Union" of which I am business agent (that is, the Fish Cannery Workers' Union, formerly A. F. of L. Local 18656) "to the interests of some other labor organization." You have demanded, in the name of William Green, that I be expelled from the Local for this reason, and because "you are convinced I am a communist."

Your instruction was voted down three times by the members of the Local; because they know that the Union has existed since October, 1933, without making progress. It was only in the last six months, since I came into the organization, that it grew from 60 members to 1200; effected working agreements with all the cannerys on Terminal Island, and spread out to Wilmington and Long Beach.

HIGH-HANDED DICTATORSHIP

After your third attempt to expel me had failed, you autocratically withdrew the charter of the Local because it would not accept your dictation. Much to your surprise the Local continued to function, the newly elected officers stayed in place and continued to give leadership to the members. You made another effort to disrupt our ranks by going direct to the cannery owners and proposing to them that you be allowed to post men at the doors of each cannery to make the workers show membership books in the American Federation of Labor before being allowed to work. However, the cannerys refused to support you in this, and your effort failed.

You made another attempt to disrupt our ranks by calling a mass meeting and asking the workers there to join the American Federation of Labor under a new charter. You failed again because the workers there unanimously opposed entering a new organization when their democratic rights had been taken away from them in the old organization. They demanded that the charter be restored to the old organization.

CONSPIRED WITH EMPLOYERS

Your last attempt at disruption has been the most dastardly of all. You have conspired with the Coast Fishing Company to intimidate the workers of that plant into joining a new A. F. of L. Union. The company has provoked a strike by declaring our agreement null and void, and by discharging members of our organization; while the other cannerys have re-affirmed our agreement. Now you have taken the role of scab-herder by taking applications from the scabs that the company has hired, and holding them for membership to form a new American Federation of Labor Local.

Your record, Mr. Buzzell, is a clear one of conniving with the cannery owners against the best interests of the cannery workers. However, to prove to the cannery workers that you are not sincerely concerned with their welfare, and that I am, I will make the following offer:

TO PRESERVE UNITY

So that there will be no split in the fish canning industry; so that there will not be two factions of workers, who will fight against each other, and thus weaken themselves before the cannery owners; and so that the majority of the workers of the fish canning industry will be united with the rest of organized labor, I am going to offer to resign from my office as business agent of the Union, after discussing the matter with our Executive Board, and on the following conditions:

SEVEN DEMANDS

1. That all members of the old local be retained in good standing in the American Federation of Labor.
2. That all officers of the Local be duly elected, and that no officers can be appointed by higher officials of the American Federation of Labor.
3. That the strike now on at the Coast Fishing Company be settled satisfactorily, in this manner—All scabs who have been employed since the strike began, whether or not they have signed in the A. F. of L., be discharged and not allowed membership in the Union; all our strikers be reinstated, and the company made to confirm an agreement with the Union.
4. That those strikers who have been arrested and persecuted for their strike activity be defended and protected by the Union.

5. That there be no expulsion of members without the approval of the membership of the Union. (In my case, while I am willing to resign from office, I think I should be permitted to remain a member of the Local because, after all, I must work for a living, and I see no reason why the Union should try to make a scab out of me.)

6. That the beginning which has been made toward organizing the entire Pacific coast be continued. That the organization be consolidated locally in the whole harbor district, working under working agreements, and with functioning shop committees.

7. That the strike against the California Packing Corporation, which has refused to sign up with the Union, be continued until the company comes to terms.

These conditions—we feel to be the minimum guarantee that membership in the American Federation of Labor will protect the interests of all of the cannery workers in the harbor district.

If you comply with the foregoing terms, I shall urge all members of our Union to keep unity in the cannerys. If you will not comply, then the record is clear to the world that your sole purpose is to crush the splendid organization which the cannery workers created on their own initiative, in order to leave them helpless before the cannery owners. In such event, the cannery workers will take their case to every Local Union in the United States.

Very truly yours,
Jack J. Moore.

LOUISE TODD SENDS PRAISE OF NEW BOOK

Louise Todd, 58298, Tehachapi prison, writes on December 24th about the New Masses prize novel, "Marching! Marching!" by Clara Weatherwax, just issued:

"This book is most absorbing. It's United States. It's today, here, now! It's us. It's R-E-A-L! That girl is an artist—not of a decadent dying civilization, but of a new world in birth. Of course, I haven't finished reading it yet, and you can't imagine how I resent the intrusion of these Christmas festivities. I'd much rather be locked up tonight."

Even the fascist magazine Time, in its issue of December 30th, says of this West Coast proletarian book, "Clara Weatherwax writes first-rate, first-hand U. S. prose that will remind more than one reader of Dos Passos." "... her winged words should strike home to even a carapace (hard-shell) conservative." And magazines like the Saturday Review of Literature (December 28th) and many others, give this worker's book respectful notice.

Granville Hicks, leading revolutionary critic, is among those who have already written about this work of local origin: "Marching! Marching! tells a simple story of workers, mostly lumbermen, on the Pacific Coast. It is a simple story of workers' lives as they are actually lived. I can think of no proletarian novel that is more authentic or more intimate. Miss Weatherwax is particularly successful in her treatment of the Communist Party, for she sees it as something growing directly out of the lives of the workers, and she appreciates the ardent heroism of the leaders of the Party and the stubborn courage of the rank and file. But she never treats her characters as merely political beings; they have fears, hopes, passions, weaknesses, dreams. Miss Weatherwax has discovered the true poetry of proletarian life and revolutionary struggle, and out of it has written a strong and beautiful book."

The author was born and schooled in the mill town of Aberdeen, Wash., "with the sound of saw-mills in her ears." Since high school days she has had a variety of jobs—both white-collar and proletarian, mostly for fifty dollars a month or less. The kinds of work mentioned or described in her novel she knows through experience or close contact. She has participated in the labor movement on the Coast and is now living with her husband in California.

LEADER OF GALLUP DEFENSE IS CALLED HOME ON NEW FRAME-UP

Fraud Charge Filed Against Howe By the Reactionary Mine Union Officials

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 31.—Here to collect funds and clothing for the families of the railroaded Gallup miners and for other impoverished families in New Mexico, Carl Howe, militant leader of the Gallup Defense Committee, was called back to New Mexico by a telegram today to face trial on a framed-up charge of "conspiracy to commit a fraud."

The case is called for Saturday morning in New Mexico District Court, in Gallup. Immediate protests should demand Howe's release.

The attempted frame-up of Howe and of 23 other workers facing trial for "contempt of court," is part of a gigantic drive by the mine owners of New Mexico to smash the militant local union of the United Mine Workers of America.

Thus far the entire progressive forces of the union have been disrupted by these fabricated court charges and by the deportation of 75 workers by the U. S. Department of Immigration. One hundred and thirty other workers in the union were intimidated into submitting to "voluntary deportation."

Most of the workers in the New Mexico mines are Mexican.

Charges against Howe are based upon statement of Nicholas Fen-taccio, reactionary official of the U.M.W.A., that Howe conspired with others to obtain money from the U.M.W.A. by use of materials, seals, etc., belonging to the union. A blanket denial of the charge, well substantiated by workers' testimony, has been made by Howe.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 6.—Fraternal organizations throughout the state are asked to aid the Ku Klux Klan in carrying out a five-point, anti-working class program for 1935. The five points are:

Drive the Communists out; deport "undesirable aliens;" buy American-made products; restore constitutional government; and keep the Church and State separate.

Townsend Plans Third Party As Election Threat

WILL SEEK ENDORSEMENT OF PLAN FROM BOTH MAJOR PARTIES

LONG BEACH, Calif., Jan. 2.—Waving the "big stick" of third-party action in the 1936 presidential campaign over the heads of the two old-line political parties, Dr. F. E. Townsend returned to his home here today with a firm declaration that leaders of these parties must openly express themselves either against or for his old-age pension plan.

"Each of the two major political parties must approve or reject the Townsend plan or take the consequences," Dr. Townsend said.

"We shall call in recognized party leaders in Washington and ask them bluntly if they are for or against the plan. We shall expect no equivocal answer. Any evasion of the issue will be interpreted by us as a denial of the Townsend plan."

"Our third party machinery is all set up and it will take only the pushing of a button to get it running."

Dr. Townsend said he would go to Washington, D. C., next week to hold a series of party meetings with heads of the Republican and Democratic parties.

SEEK FUNDS TO MARK GRAVE OF GALLUP MARTYR

FAMILY OF ESQUIBEL IS UNABLE TO BUY STONE

SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 5.—Salomon Esquibel, a champion and militant fighter for the interests of the workers of New Mexico, died last April in the town of Gallup.

He was shot in the back by Sheriff Dee Roberts during the so-called Gallup "riot."

Esquibel's grave is still unmarked. His wife and two young children are destitute. They have barely enough to buy food and are totally unable to provide the simplest marker for his grave.

Friends and admirers of Salomon Esquibel are determined his grave shall become a shrine and symbol of working class solidarity and devotion. All friends of labor are asked to contribute to a fund that will make this possible.

It is hoped sufficient funds will be raised through trade unions and individuals during the next two or three months to pay for the placing of a memorial stone at the grave of Esquibel on the first anniversary of his fatal shooting, April 4. Contributions should be sent to the Esquibel Memorial Fund, care of Gallup Defense Committee, Box 1021, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Arsenic and Lead in Food Sold to Public

WASHINGTON.—(FP)—Many food and drug manufacturers continue in their efforts to kill off some of their best customers. The U. S. Food and Drug Administration again reports seizure of thousands of cases of drugs and foods, during the month of November.

Violation of the Federal Cautious Poison Act, the presence of "dangerous quantities of metallic contaminants—lead and copper," arsenic and lead residue, filth, mold, worms, dirt, an insect infestation in the foods and drugs are given as the reasons for some of the seizures.

Low Down on an Upcoming Senator

BORAH WILL RUN—WHERE?

Days of Bill Haywood Recalled

By RIDGELY CUMMINGS

The kept press this week has featured Senator Borah. "He Consents to Run," reads one headline. Other news dispatches speak of him as a radical, a liberal, an independent, an insurgent Republican. Very clever, these campaign managers.

Borah is about as radical as J. P. Morgan or Andrew Mellon. Being an egotist, he occasionally clashes with the Republican Party bosses, but a crisis finds him always on the reactionary side.

Very early in his career, before the turn of the century, Borah chose his side of the class fight. He chose the bosses' side.

Back in the days when Big Bill Haywood was playing a heroic role in the West with his Western Federation of Miners, fighting the workers' fight against the gold mining monarchs, the silver kings, and the coal barons; back in the days when Clarence Darrow was a militant courageous young lawyer just beginning to attain a national reputation; back in the days of stage-coaches and cattle rustlers and the Ludlow massacre and the Leadville and Bisbee, Arizona strikes; back in those days William E. Borah was an open-faced, long-haired promising young lawyer. He was promising, with his gift of gab, his flair for oratory. He was promising, so the bosses decided they wanted him on their side. They gave him an appointment as prosecuting attorney in a small Idaho town.

The bosses didn't make any mistake in buying Borah. He has served them loyally ever since.

FRAME-UP FRUSTRATED

WPA Workers Vote Strike for More Pay

FINDLAY, O.—(FP)—Four hundred members of the Workers' Alliance have voted to strike unless wages on Findlay WPA projects are raised from 33c to 50c an hour. The Alliance members also demand transportation to and from work and no deductions for loss of time caused by rain or illness.

"No One Starves" 'Is Proved Untrue

NEW ORLEANS.—(FP)—Despite assurances that "no one shall starve in America," Mrs. Eva Killian, 29, was declared by physicians to be starving to death when brought by an ambulance to a charity hospital here. She had been living on coffee and bread. Fifteen thousand residents of New Orleans are said to be in hardly better situation.

details of the once famous Haywood, Moyer, Pettibone case have faded from the public mind, but any union man can tell you that the bosses were defeated. After being kidnaped and thrown in jail for eighteen months without bail, Big Bill and the other defendants were finally acquitted.

The world remembers that Clarence Darrow was lawyer for the defense. The world remembers that Haywood was proven innocent.

What some of our working class voters are apt to forget is that William E. Borah was the prosecuting attorney. Borah was the mine-owners' mouthpiece—Borah was the man who frothed at his sensitive mouth and demanded the extreme penalty—Borah demanded that Big Bill Haywood be sacrificed to capitalist class injustice.

Although Big Bill Haywood lived to fight the good fight for another thirty years; although he lived to become a world-famous working class hero; although Haywood defeated Borah in their first major conflict, still the bosses did not let Borah go unrewarded for representing them. They have steadily pushed him forward.

Today Big Bill Haywood's ashes rest beneath the Kremlin in the Soviet Union. Today William E. Borah sits in the United States Senate, a presidential possibility. With his shaggy, flowing hair and his polished sentences, with his seventy years of devoted service to the bosses' capitalist class resting lightly on his shoulders, Borah makes a dignified figure.

But we of the working class cannot be fooled forever. When we go the polls we will remember Borah's record. Senator Wm. E. Borah—imitation liberal—mouthpiece of the bosses.

Nazi Drama Instills Racial Prejudices; Myth of Superman

BERLIN, Germany, Jan. 4.—The awful consequences of marrying without so-called scientific approval of your partner's blood and race is the latest theme of the German theater, and a major reason for its declining attendance.

Typical of these race-political dramas is "Sons-in-Law." The chief character is a Protestant pastor, who in spite of the Nazis thinks that human creatures are all equal. Ignoring his Nazi brother and son, he marries one daughter to a Jew and the other to a manufacturer with a dubious family health record.

The consequences are awful until the Nazi son points out the moral and saves the family name by marrying a Nordic maiden given a class A-1 rating. The whole family, except the pastor, a tragic figure to the last, becomes converted to the Nazi super-man ideal.

Such plays are invariably preceded by a lecture from a Nazi politician on why the audience should marry 100 per cent Nordic and bear sufficient children to furnish Hitler with future cannon fodder.

MOVIE REVIEWS

By MICHAEL QUIN

"OIL FOR THE LAMPS OF CHINA."

Capitalism must be the hero. This is the first rule of the Hollywood movies. And it is not an easy one to follow, for the human mind is equipped with a curious balancing instrument called logic that drives men to drink when they seek to defy it.

Capitalism is a difficult fellow to make a hero of. And for all their pretended sophistication, Hollywood movie people take both themselves and their movies very seriously.

The man who wrote the scenario for that infamous, lying, cheating, anti-labor film, "Black Fury" went out in the hills and put a bullet in his brain.

And many directors, writers and actors shed crocodile tears into their gin glasses and spent long hours of maudlin conversation trying to self-justify their hypocrisy.

"Oil for the Lamps of China" is one of those stumbling, self-contradictory films which reveals the groping and uncertainty of its makers.

On the surface it is a glorification of American big business, picturing the search and struggle for foreign markets as a crusade of idealists bringing the torch of civilization to benighted peoples. The agents of a huge American oil company seeking new markets in China are romanticized as pioneers, bringing to the Orient a new era of joy and prosperity.

But the doubts and consciences of the writers and directors show through so plainly that the picture becomes more interesting as a study of psychological confusion than as a portrayal of imperialism in China. The effect is much the same as when someone tells you, "Nothing is the matter. Everything is quite all right," at the same time betray both by their eyes and their tone of voice that the house is on fire at least.

The young men who sacrifice their youth in the service of the company are rewarded by betrayal and injustice at the hands of their employers.

The picture opens in a conference room in New York where young men about to be shipped out as the agents (tentacles) of the company are being given a lecture on idealism, loyalty to the company and courage in carrying out the great "civilizing" enterprise.

The careers of these young men as leeches among the hungry Chinese masses are traced with brutal frankness. Upon arriving in China, they learn that the Chinese people are pitifully poor, having only a few pennies. Their job is to contrive ways and means of getting these few pennies. There are 400 million Chinese and a penny from each would be a worthwhile sum. Duped, cheated, ridiculed and sometimes ruined by their masters, the idealism and loyalty that is the driving force of their lives (together with toadying for advancement) come through undisturbed. This is the main miracle of the film.

A clash with the Chinese Communists is the high spot of the story. These scenes were done with remarkable self-consciousness. The director was obviously instructed to show them in a bad light. He proceeded to carry out his instructions, but with such clumsiness and hesitation that serious doubts remain in the mind of the audience. Were they bandits? The picture hesitated to say so. It rather evaded the issue. It sought to leave that impression without blankly proclaiming the lie.

In the end, when the hero is betrayed by his company and reduced to the state of a groveling toady, he turns to his wife and says: "What can I do? I am finished. There is nowhere I can turn."

I could not resist saying aloud: "You can join the Communists." And there was a general murmur of approval from the audience around me.

COLLECTIVIZED AGRICULTURE

DESCRIBED IN SHOLOKHOV'S NEW NOVEL

THE BIRTH OF THE RED DAWN

SEEDS OF TOMORROW. By Mikhail Sholokhov. Knopf. Reviewed by Fred Hunt.

Although the publishers make no note of this, there is no better introduction to Sholokhov's new novel than Stalin's chapter on "The Peasant Question" in his historic lectures on the "Foundations of Leninism." "Some sceptics," he observed, "even assert that it (collectivization) is simply utopian, impossible, for peasants will be peasants—they are small producers and cannot, therefore, be of use in organizing the work of laying the foundation of socialist production." Stalin fully refutes the sceptics (read also Trotskyists).

And what about history? Read the Moscow News, the New Masses, the Western Worker, etc., and even the New York Times grudgingly records the triumph. Sholokhov shows the human process itself, in terms of social action and conflict and human character.

In his first novel, "And Quiet Flows the Don," Sholokhov depicted the Don Cossack in his pre-war conditions, during the world war, and the revolution. His material was of obvious dramatic nature and he made the most of it, producing what, for the want of a better word, can be called a classic. In this book he confronts an even larger issue: the transformation of human nature involved in the socialist reconstruction of society. Translated into flesh-and-blood terms of human conflict this is a drama of unparalleled intensity and scope. Sholokhov, in giving us a stirring, vital picture of all the forces of the struggle, even surpasses the achievement of his first book.

COSSACK SETTING

The story is set in a Cossack village during 1930, the first year of collectivization, and draws into its sweeping action an attempt at counter-revolution, expulsion of the kulaks, sabotage, the personal hesitations, habits and follies of sincere, sympathetic peasants, and even the errors of impulsive Communists. Sholokhov is a significant refutation of the "Artists in Uniform" school. He does not whitewash his characters; they are all red-blooded, sinewy, full-rounded men and women. He knows and shows that human beings make mistakes; even District Committees make mistakes. But these errors are not irremediable when submitted to the decision of mass social experience itself. Individuals may go wrong, as individuals; but the organized, class-conscious working class does not, firmly anchored as it is by common interests and common struggle.

ROBUST HUMOR

Do not be misled by this brief review: this is not a documentary novel. On the contrary, it is replete with life, with robust down-to-earth humor (real belly-laugh), a gallery of fine portraits, swift action, and a generous sense of nature. Yes, it is an absorbing story by any standard of fiction—when you think of fiction as the "novelization" of fact and experience. But what strikes one forcibly, and remains with the reader, is the drama of the new world, the new social order, which triumphs over the most stubborn obstacles of nature and the vilest tricks of its desperate enemies, and even that old theological, capitalist bogey—human nature. Here, we see revolution in concrete terms, in the conversion and advance of man. Will the muzhik always be muzhik? The old sentimentalists preferred to think so; the reactionaries try their best to make it so. Sholokhov, regarding the success of collectivization, eloquently denies it, and lays bare the seeds of tomorrow. And tomorrow in the revolutionary acceleration of time is the tomorrow already here, beginning, a red dawn, for all with eyes to see.

Colonists Leave For New Homes in Northern Quebec

MONTREAL, Can., Jan. 4.—A special train carried the largest single movement of settlers for 1935 to new colonization areas in Southern Quebec recently.

Ninety-five families consisting of 442 members left Montreal on special trains of the Canadian National Railways, journeying to join husbands and families who had already prepared a new home for them.

Offices of Labor Unions Hostile to Calles Attacked

MEXICO, D. F., Jan. 2.—Attacking several buildings where offices of labor unions were located, an unidentified group captured red and black flags protesting Italian-Ethiopian war.

As a result of this action, the workers have decided to establish guards at all union buildings to prevent further attacks.

Police released all persons arrested in connection with the seizure of arms in the home of Luis Morones, president of Mexican Federation of Labor and a supporter of General Calles. He contended that he had been authorized by previous presidents to keep the arms, and that those arrested while transporting them did not know what they were carrying. He stated that he had intended to distribute the arms to various buildings belonging to his organization as protection against possibility of violence.

The arms, which have been confiscated, although Morones was not arrested, were bought in the United States eight years ago through the Mexican Consulate in New York, according to Mr. Morones.

How good is your unit working? Did you carry out your last plan of work? Are you improving from week to week? How is further improvement to be made?

RIP TIDES

By LeMae

"Fast Passage"

"What do you make it out to be?" the skipper wiped the snowflakes from his binoculars as he peered into the thickness of the horizon ahead.

"It looks like a Jap fishing boat," and as the object of their gaze loomed closer, the mate added, "she's hove to, probably run out of fuel."

"Well, slow her down, mate, and we'll take a look at her," with a frown on his face the old man stepped into the chartroom to make a mark on the chart.

The propeller stopped as though with a sigh of relief after twenty-eight days steady churning of cold Arctic Circle waters.

"Better swing a boat out and see what's wrong with her—you can't make any signals out in this weather," the captain turned to the helmsman, "Don't let her get too close."

"They need water and food," from the deep trough of the grey capped seas the boatman shouted through cupped hands to the bridge high above the tiny lifeboat, "and her engine is busted."

"Send over a bag of rice and some water," the old man ordered, "and tell Sparks to send out the position to that Jap gunboat ahead of us somewhere." As the white blizzard increased in thickness he shouted to the snow-covered wheelman, "Keep the whistle blowing, so the boat can find his way back to the ship."

"But you're not going to leave them out here," the mate remonstrated, "that gunboat will never find her alone in this weather."

"We haven't time to lay out here and act as a whistle buoy," the captain answered impatiently as he jerked the engineer's telegraph "full speed ahead."

"I'll get hell as it is—this old tub is taking too long for the passage already," he muttered under his breath as he recalled the port captain's veiled warning, "Captain J. made better time." The lifeboat was barely secure in its chocks when the crippled fishing boat was lost in the swirling white thickness astern.

"You know, I've often wondered how that little Jap fishing craft made out," the captain was in the midst of pleasant conversation with the pilot in the warmth of the chartroom as the harbor slowly gave way to the open sea. "It was in just such weather as this, but I guess she made it all right," his voice belied his expression of conscience-free assurance.

"That was the trip you made in record time, wasn't it, skipper?" the pilot answered in remembrance as he buttoned his coat preparatory to descending the ladder to the approaching pilot boat.

"There's something ahead of us, sir," the wheelman shouted into the chartroom where the old man and the mate were busy plotting courses over a much erased chart. "Something familiar about it," the mate volunteered as he gazed at a small water-logged hulk drifting broadside to, across the course ahead.

The old man swore softly to himself as he laid the glasses down with a startled look. "Get a boat over," he spoke sharply. "Don't tell me—I know what it is."

Slowly the lifeboat returned. The oarsmen pulled the long oars in grim accusation.

Bitterly the voice of the boatman rose to the bridge above in biting condemnation, "There's twelve dead fishermen aboard the hulk—what do you want us to do?"

As he thought of the two carefully dismembered and decayed bodies lying in the stench-wracked galley of the Jap fishing boat, one of the oarsmen shouted aloft, "Yeh, make it snappy—we gotta make a fast passage this trip."

War Secretary Dern's Military Report Denounced by Educators

Censorship by Army Called First Step of Incipient Fascism by Professors

WASHINGTON.—(FP)—The attack on opponents of compulsory military training launched by Secretary of War Dern in his annual report, has brought a sharp comeback from a number of prominent educators. In a letter to Pres. Roosevelt they deplore Dern's insinuation that "anything and everything containing implications unfavorable to such military training is 'sedition propaganda.'" They deny emphatically his assertion that the military training provisions of the National Defense Act are "entirely democratic" and "consistent with the aspirations of the most idealistic lover of peace."

"Secretary Dern's accusations of seditious attitudes applies to Congressmen and Senators who oppose compulsory military training just as much as to students, educators and other citizens, and I should think scores of them would resent the censorship functions thus assumed by the secretary of war," says Dr. George A. Coe, chairman of the Committee on Militarism in Education, in making public the letter signed by 28 leading professors.

INCIPIENT FASCISM

"Secretary Dern takes it for granted that a certain policy of military defense is endowed with the attributes of political and civil orthodoxy, and that to oppose it is to be a bad citizen. This is monstrous. I cannot recall any parallel avowed in any official government document or report."

"The significance of Secretary Dern's attitude should not escape us. It is precisely in line with the attempt at governmental control of political thinking in Germany and Italy, and it fits in smoothly with other signs of incipient Fascism which are manifesting themselves in this country."

"The educators' letter points out that compulsory military training exists in 118 nominally civil schools and colleges throughout the nation; that students in a number of states have been suspended for refusing on conscientious grounds to participate; and that various courts, including the U. S. Supreme Court, have rendered decisions upholding such suspensions. Dern in his report claimed that

"the propaganda against military training in colleges is based upon the fallacy that such training instills a spirit of militarism in the youth of America." He declared that patriotic citizens "should not permit themselves to be misled by seditious propaganda, but should willingly and loyally support every agency created by the National Defense Act, which sets up the best organization for a citizen arm that has ever been conceived."

In contradiction of Dern's statement the educators point out that "many thoughtful citizens see a clear relationship between formal military training and the perpetuation of the social institutions and psychological dispositions of militarism. They give a number of arguments against military training, based on educational grounds."

A bill to put an end to compulsory military training in colleges is now pending in Congress. It was introduced by Sen. G. P. Nye (R., N. Dak.) and Rep. Paul J. Kvale (F. L., Minn.).

TOWNSEND PLAN CHALLENGED BY 'REACTIONARIES'

LONG BEACH, Calif., Jan. 3.—The challenge to debate the economic feasibility of the Townsend Old-Age Revolving Pension Plan, which was hurled by the reactionary "California Crusaders" recently to Dr. F. E. Townsend, father of the plan, was accepted here today.

However, Dr. Townsend will debate by proxy, saying he is "too busy" to accept the challenge personally.

The elderly physician nominated Louis Mertins, close friend and one of his earliest supporters, to pick up the cudgels in defense of his plan. Townsend issued a counter-challenge to Samuel J. Huiue, San Francisco Crusader, to debate Mertins at any time at the Los Angeles Shrine Auditorium or Coliseum, Long Beach Municipal Auditorium or any place in San Francisco.

Mertins is a former Chautauqua lecturer.

Building an 8-Page Western Worker

Lincoln Steffens on The Value of the Workers' Press

"Scoops" are what I read the Daily Worker and the Western Worker for, news and views I can't get anywhere else. Call it labor news, if you will. I have a much more penetrating conception of the exclusive, sensational thrills I read day by day and digest month by month in these labor class papers. They understand and they make me understand the news they print, as no other papers do.

Their "strikes" are not merely labor troubles; their arbitrations are clearly strike-breakings and their "settlements" are never victories or defeats. They handle these aright as but battles in the war upon which they keep their eyes, and mine—the continuing struggle which they and, apparently, they alone are forever aware of.

The uncelebrated editors of these labor sheets are intelligent; not only "intellectual," they are "history-conscious." They believe verily, as our intelligentsia do not, that this is an "evolutionary" world, that changes every minute of every day and their news is a record of their conscious history.

We are literally on the way and they, amazing me, have a definite, prophetic sense of where we are headed for. They, and their reporters, and their readers—and nobody else. I am not a citizen of Tennessee. I like to be in on this new-culture.

See? It's as big as that to me. The news these two Workers report are the unbearable miseries, the inciting wrongs, the mothering emotions, the regimenting thinking and the gradually organizing acts of an awakening, rising, powerful young world, rising slowly but surely to take the place of an old world which the other, the capitalist class papers tell us every day.

Lincoln Steffens.

The drive to complete the quota of $2500 for the Western Worker will go into full swing in San Francisco at the Western Worker Press Conference to be held on Saturday, Jan. 11, at 121 Haight street, 2 p. m.

A report of the Press Bazaar will be given and standing of the sub-sections and units will be announced.

All units are requested to bring in the outstanding funds from tickets and greetings to this conference.

WELDERS JOIN MACHINISTS IN WAGE STRIKE

OAKLAND WORKERS FIGHT FOR RECOGNITION

OAKLAND, Jan. 8.—Welders joined the machinists and shipyard workers when 12 welders walked off on strike at the California Steel Tank and Pipe Works in Oakland.

The workers are demanding $100 an hour per shift and union recognition in the shop. The men are working on a pipe line job the field part of which is being done by the City. In the field the City is paying $1.25 per hour.

The strikers belong to Local 6, which is affiliated to the District Council No. 2 of the Maritime Federation. The Council has assured them full support and cooperation.

Frazier to Issue Social Insurance Congress Measure

WASHINGTON.—(FP)—A "workers' social insurance" bill calling for a $5,000,000,000 Congressional appropriation to provide security for workers, farmers and professional people will be introduced at the 1936 session of Congress by Sen. Lynn Frazier of North Dakota. The bill, even wider in scope than the Lundeen bill, calls for unemployment insurance as well as for maternity, accident, sickness and old-age benefit payments. Drafted by experts of the Inter-Professional Ass'n., the bill provides for future financing by taxation of the wealthy.

OVER THE TOP Sections That Have Raised Their Quotas: Merced 106 per cent San Bernardino 101 per cent

Would you like to see the Western Worker an eight-page paper? Would you like to see more pictures, more and livelier features, better typography, wider news coverage in your paper?

These things will be made possible by the success of the drive for a $7,500 sustaining fund for the paper. We don't have to tell you the drive needs a lot of pepping up. The figures below show that—adequately enough.

So let's get busy. And don't forget—there are prizes for the best sections. Forward to a bigger and better Western Worker!

New York City-Owned Subway Opens New Link

NEW YORK.—(FP)—Complete public operation of New York City's huge rapid transit network moved another step forward when Mayor LaGuardia opened a new link in the Independent System to provide subway service to the heart of the crowded East Side workers' district.

Other lines will be opened in the next year to make the city's transit system a more important factor in moving the metropolitan district's millions of commuters. Eventual unification of the Independent System with those of the Interborough Rapid Transit Co. is expected.

The new line was financed largely by PWA funds.

Los Angeles Leading In Competition on Trip to Soviet

Los Angeles is leading San Francisco by 15 points for the trip to the Soviet Union. From all indications Los Angeles workers and sympathizers will give San Francisco a hot race.

All active in San Francisco and Los Angeles are being watched by their respective Section Committees and Western Worker Drive Committees.

The selection of comrade to visit the Soviet Union on May 1 as the guest of the Western Worker will be made by the above committees on the basis of activity during the drive.

Every worker in San Francisco and Los Angeles active in the drive will be eligible to win the prize.

Remember, your drive committees are watching you!

LEAD RACE

In the competition of Groups D, E, and F, Santa Barbara, San Bernardino and Merced sections are leading the race. San Bernardino and Merced sections have already over-subscribed their quota and are going ahead to raise more funds to increase their leads. However, every other section in these groups have all the opportunity to beat the leaders, as there are still two months before the end of the drive. Winners of all prizes will be announced at the conclusion of the drive, March 14.

SANTA BARBARA

The Santa Barbara Communist Party unit reports that they held a most successful New Year's Eve affair. Over 40 workers attended and net proceeds amounted to $16.00.

The Joe and Edna scene from "Waiting for Lefty" was put on by comrades Rodwick and Van Der Kar and went over big. This was followed by a reading from "Squaring the Circle."

This unit is now going to try to make even a better showing on the next affair, Lenin's Memorial, which will be given on January 21 at 208 W. Canon Perdido. Proceeds will go to the Western Worker.

MORE GREETINGS

The Press Committee of the special edition of the Western Worker, which was published December 23rd, regrets very much that the following greetings came in too late to appear in the East Bay edition:

Unit No. 3, Berkeley, C. P., and Finnish Workers' Club.
We want to assure these friends that their contributions are appreciated very much.
Western Worker Press Committee.

NOTICE

To All Sections:—Reports and progress of activities of the Western Worker Drive must be sent by all sections in the district not later than Tuesday each week. Funds collected should be sent in at least weekly to the Western Worker Drive Committee, 121 Haight st., San Francisco, Calif.

If you have not received collection lists and other material, please notify committee immediately.

Our goal must be to raise the full $7,500 by the last week in February when the District Convention of the Communist Party meets.

Forward to an 8-page paper by March 1.

Western Worker Drive Committee.

The Western Worker can be obtained at news stands. If your news dealer does not have it, ask him to stock it.

SUCKERS FOR QUACKS

There is a firm in New York City which sells lists of people suffering from particular diseases. It sells these lists to patent medicine manufacturers. For $5 a quack can buy 1000 names and addresses of people suffering from ordinary diseases. But names of people suffering from cancer, rupture and deafness cost $20 per 1000, indicating that these unfortunates form a more fertile field for the quacks.

If you have been unsuccessfully fighting rheumatism for years and suddenly you begin to receive a flood of letters telling you about the marvelous "Dr. Whoosis" sure cure for rheumatism and about many of the absolutely, positively perfect remedies for your ailment, you will know that you have been placed on some such sucker-list.

You will be expected immediately to drag your way to the nearest druggist and demand that he obtain this marvelous cure for you. If and when that fails, you are expected to try one absolutely certain cure after another until you are broke or you have stomach disorders from drinking too many mixtures of pepper, salt and sea water.

Among the subscribers to these letter brokers is our old friend Standard Oil, which is engaged in robbing the sick through fake remedies—when not busy framing union men.

The Women's Mutual Benefit Co. in Illinois is a similar sucker-list concern. The organization advertizes in popular magazines that it will give sick people free aid and service. The letters that it receives, it sells for $5 per 1000. Other agencies collect clippings of suffering from specific diseases through the columns of the small-town newspapers.

COSMETICS

More than $1,000,000 a year is spent in the U. S. on cosmetics. Aside from the vast number of worthless products, there are large numbers of dangerous cosmetics.

The average skin specialist sees from two to three cases a week of skin poisoning or skin irritation caused by such cosmetics.

During one year, sixty-two skin specialists, between them, saw 111 cases of poisoning due to hair dyes, 43 cases of poisoning from the use of hair-tonics, and 137 cases of poisoning from face bleaches, face creams, powders and rouges. Cosmetics often contain wood alcohol, coal-tar dyes, arsenic, mercury or lead.

TOOTH PASTE AND WASHES

In spite of the widespread advertising to the contrary, there are no tooth pastes that in themselves will kill germs. The important factor is the method of brushing the teeth, which is largely mechanical. The content of most tooth pastes are worth only a small fraction of the price of the product.

Most mouth washes depend for their popularity on the "cool, clean feeling" which they leave in the mouth. This is actually not due to a cleaner mouth but to the cheap perfume and the menthol in the wash. In other words, the bad taste is covered over by a stronger taste.

Effective organization of unemployed will aid in maintaining union scales of pay. Demand that your union officials support such work.

Communist Party Members In the Unions

The year 1935 saw a great influx of American Federation of Labor union men into the ranks of the Communist Party. The coming year will see this trend develop to an even more marked degree.

The presence of Communist Party members in a union is always evidenced by a sharp increase in strength, vitality and effectiveness of that union.

The old-line union officials, betrayers of the call of William Green, Edward Vandenberg, J. W. Buzzell and Paul Scharrenberg, recognize Communist union men as the greatest threat to their power. By "power," we mean their power to throttle the unions, keep them weak, keep them from developing.

The capitalist press gives willing voice to every proclamation of these traitors and is particularly enthusiastic in printing statements accusing the Communist Party of efforts to "destroy the unions."

The ridiculousness of this is apparent in the fact that every union these pompous gentlemen condemn as "under Communist control," is a union which has recently seen vast increases in membership, the passage of resolutions establishing democracy and rank and file control, and the achievement of significant gains for its members.

The unions which these employers' representatives describe as "loyal" unions are more often those in which membership is weak, working conditions disgraceful, democracy non-existent and all negotiations and decisions left to the well-fed officials.

Another interesting observation is that every union man who raises his voice with an honest or sensible suggestion for furthering the interests of his union is immediately decry by these august dignitaries as a "Communist."

We call your attention to the statement by Jack Moore, a Communist union man and business manager of the Fish Cannery Workers' Union of San Pedro, which appears on page three of this issue. A reading of this statement should be ample evidence of the sincerity and loyalty of Communists in the unions.

It is also to be noted that the cannery workers of San Pedro were virtually unorganized until Communist workers got busy and organized them.

The activities of Paul Scharrenberg, infamous labor cheat expelled from his union and discredited by a unanimous vote, speak further as to the sincerity of Communists. Scharrenberg is now in Washington openly seeking to split the Sailors' Union by having Pacific coast locals expelled from the A. F. of L. Working conditions on the Pacific coast are far superior to those on the Atlantic coast, sheerly through the activity of the unions. Yet Scharrenberg and the rest of the A. F. of L. top officialdom decry the West coast unions as "Communist" and all efforts of East coast maritime workers to obtain similar improved conditions are declared to be the result of "Communist influence."

This much should be understood: there are Communists in the unions and there are going to be more and more as time goes on. And the result is going to be bigger, stronger unions, better wages and working conditions.

The Supreme Court Decision On the AAA

The financial powers which control the United States government are at present pushing around the three walnut shells of politics. The next presidential elections will be the time when the American people are to guess which shell the pea of justice lies under.

Whether a Democratic or Republican administration is voted in makes no difference to the powers that be. They have ample control of both and contribute to both campaign funds.

Their greatest concern is to block the growing radical and liberal vote which is voicing sentiment for a united front Farmer-Labor Party.

Pretended opposition of big business to the Roosevelt administration is greatly strengthening his popularity. And from Roosevelt's recent nationwide broadcast, it is apparent that his platform in the coming electoral contest will be a "crusade against the moneyed interests."

As for the Supreme Court decisions against both the NRA and the AAA, it must be noted that these decisions came at a time when such measures had already run their course and accomplished their purpose. Both "experiments" resulted in substantial profit and dividend increases. The immediate question is, why were the decisions not handed down before? Why did it take all this time to decide that they are unconstitutional?

The reason is that both NRA and AAA have ceased to loit profits and are now regarded by finance as an impediment to further profits. By pretended regulation of business, industry and agriculture, the larger interests were able to stifle the competition of small competitors and loit prices. This accomplished, they have readily kicked all "regulations" aside to make way for an increased drive of wage-cuts and speed-up, which are calculated to raise profits still higher.

It is true, also, that perfect accord does not exist within the capitalist camp. The Roosevelt administration played a very shrewd game of benefiting capital under pretense of championing the small man. In order to do this a circuit of alibi-betic innovations was performed, which the more reactionary capitalists regard as both expensive and annoying. They want an outright return to the old catch as catch can, throat cutting business competition. They want unbridled license in their profit-making orgies.

As far as the working class is concerned, the whole thing is a quarrel among capitalists. Greater profits is the aim and the only point on which there is disagreement is how to go about it.

The Republican platform will be for "a return to rugged American individualism and an end to government experimentation."

The Democratic platform will be "to sponsor the interests of the small man against the moneyed interests."

Thus the capitalist electoral machine feels equipped to catch all votes, both right and left, reactionary and progressive. It is like a department store with merchandise to appeal to all.

Since when does the working class expect the capitalist class to sponsor and put in office any man who will act against them in the interests of labor? If the working class wants representation, it must create its own election machinery—the united front Farmer-Labor Party—and put its own men in office.

Hearst Reaches for Greater Power

Reaching out his tentacles and wrapping them around ever new propaganda agencies for the furthering of fascist aims in the United States, Hearst, Public Enemy of Democracy Number One, has now acquired centralized control over the Baltimore News-Post, Baltimore Sunday American, Atlanta Georgian, Atlanta Sunday American, and the San Antonio Light. In addition, the Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., takes over the ready holdings of the Baltimore and Atlanta companies.

Active publicist of the aims of the American Liberty League and other reactionary groups, Hearst is the greatest single force for fascist and war propaganda today due to his control over newspapers, radio stations, magazines and motion pictures. The campaign for the boycotting of all Hearst agencies and products must be revived on a wider scale than ever. His unscrupulous methods are evident in the fact that although he was responsible for the callous acts that drove Lindbergh to seek refuge in England, he editorially blamed "criminals and Communists."

BOYCOTT HEARST!

Do We Need a Curb On the Supreme Court?

As the result of the AAA Supreme Court decision, organizations and groups backing progressive legislation are compelled to seriously consider the question of amending the Constitution against such arbitrary nullification of laws in the interests of the mass of the people. Such groups include not only farmers, but all organizations seeking improved social security legislation, production for use programs, protection of trade union rights, old age pensions, etc., and therefore include the American Federation of Labor, Townsend and Epic supporters, Socialists and Communists.

The American Federation of Labor executive council, which will meet next week at Miami, is expected to consider a tentative draft for an amendment giving Congress the power to enact laws for the social and economic welfare of the nation, and seeking to prevent interpretation of the fifth amendment as a means of limiting such progressive legislation.

Thus a common front against the reactionary "Save the Constitution" stand of the American Liberty League is slowly crystallizing.

Abraham Lincoln Speaking

"I see in the near future a crisis that unnerves me, and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country. As a result of war, corporations have been enthroned and an era of corruption in high places will follow, and the money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until all wealth is aggregated in a few hands, and the republic is destroyed. . . . I bid the laboring people beware of surrendering the power which they possess, and which, if surrendered, will surely be used to shut the door of advancement to such as them, and fix new disabilities and burdens upon them until all of liberty shall be lost."

—Message to Congress—1861.

Party Life

DISTRICT ORGANIZATIONAL

Discussing the Party Decisions In The Units

The pre-convention discussion is open. From now until the National Convention of our Party on March 8th—every member of the Party has the duty to express his opinion on the work and life of the Party, on the work of the unit, on the work of each individual member. This period should be a means of securing the opinion of every member, so that through this joint discussion and self-critical analysis of our entire work, the District and National Conventions can work out the tasks for the coming period.

To make this possible every unit of the Party has to carry through well-organized discussions on the main problems before us. The District Committee of California, therefore, proposes that at least three discussions shall be held in each unit on the following questions: the decisions of the Central Committee Plenum based on Browder's report; the resolution of the District Committee on the Farmer-Labor Party, and the work of the unit in the light of these discussions.

How shall the unit discuss these problems? Every member should be thoroughly acquainted with the report of Comrade Browder. Some comrades will argue this report is too difficult for us to understand. This may be true. That is why it is all the more necessary to discuss it in the units. In these discussions we should concentrate on the main points dealt with in the report.

FIGHTING FASCISM

The report deals concretely with the trends towards fascism in the United States and how to develop the united front of all toiling people against the menace of fascism, showing how this struggle can be developed around the concrete manifestations of fascist tendencies—a attack on democratic rights, vigilante terror, break-up of strikes, etc. The report deals with the war danger, the position of the Party on the League sanctions and the Roosevelt neutrality policy, the Soviet peace policy as well as the concrete forms of independent working class action to stop the shipment of "murder" cargo. The report deals with the tasks facing us on the trade union field and our position on the Lewis-Howard-Hillman progressive group and to what extent we support them in the struggle for industrial unionism. These are problems which face all of us every day. The unit must discuss them thoroughly so as to bring the maximum of clarity in our ranks. Workers in the neighborhood, in the shops, in the trade unions, want to know what the Communists have to say on these questions. Every Party member must not only know how to answer them, but how to convince the workers so as to win them over for these actions.

Every Party member should therefore read carefully the report of Comrade Browder in the December issue of the Communist. All questions which need further explanation, should be listed and raised in the unit discussion. A comrade assigned to lead the discussion should raise the main points, while all the other comrades shall participate in the discussion, raising all questions troubling them, so as to cover them as thoroughly as possible.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Official protest by President Roosevelt on behalf of the German Jews was demanded today by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish Congress. He likewise proposed that there be a world-wide protest of Jews themselves to the League of Nations. The Beginning of the End

UNIONS MUST ORGANIZE AGAINST VIGILANTISM

A Short Summary of Boss Terror in California During 1935

By Mini Carson.

Vigilantism has reigned unopposed in California for many years. Workers have been beaten, slugged, and murdered by these lawless armed bands, and to date there hasn't been a single vigilante convicted of any of these crimes.

Who have been the victims of this reign of vigilante terror during the last few years? Without exception, the victims have been the leaders and fighters in trade unions and other workers' organizations, who have made successful attempts to organize workers for their immediate economic necessities. The sole aim of vigilantism is to smash all working class organizations. The modern vigilante groups are no more than armed thugs of big business, and their activities have been an armed force against the entire working class. Their record is not one of "patriotism," but of murder, torture and terror.

Why should the trade unions take the lead in the fight against vigilantism? Let us review some of the vigilante attacks made during the past year. It will surely open the eyes of organized labor to the necessity of doing something to rid ourselves of this menace.

ATTACK JOBLESS

It is true that organizations outside of the trade unions have felt the attacks of armed thugs. Unemployed workers were kidnapped in Hayward to prevent them from investigating miserable conditions in the pea fields; vigilantes attempted to halt an unemployed meeting in Ventura, workers' halls were smashed by roaming bands of organized hoodlums in a dozen different cities in the state. Recently in Riverside County a young Negro worker, Alfonso Townsend, framed on rioting charges in a CCC camp, and finally convicted and sentenced to 90 days, was threatened by vigilantes, and these were present, armed, in court during his trial.

But when we follow this disgraceful history of vigilante activity in our state through the year 1935, we find that a great majority of victims were trade unionists, rank and file militants, who ran up against not only their employers but their reactionary union officials as well, in their endeavors to make their unions real instruments of struggle against miserable working conditions. It is not accidental that the sharp attacks were made against four groups of workers in the state: waterfront workers, the lumber workers of Eureka, the miners of Jackson, and the agricultural workers. These conducted the most militant battles against big business in California.

ATTACK AGAINST MILITANTS

In San Pedro, under the reign of Friedl and his notorious beef squad, all militants were in constant danger. O'Connor, business agent of the Marine Cooks and Stewards, was badly beaten in May; Harry R. Davis, ISU member, beaten twice, kidnapped and forced out of San Pedro; Arthur Ross, ILA member, died of a fractured skull as a result of terrific slugging; Claud Smallman of the Marine Firemen injured in June.

In Stockton, Ray Morency, vice president of the ILA Warehousemen, was shot, his murderer arrested and finally acquitted on the grounds of self defense.

In San Francisco, the vigilantes have been well organized. In August, Eugene Dietrich, business agent of the ILA was fired upon in his own home by five gangsters; Earl King, secretary of Marine Firemen, was fired on while driving down Kearny st. Hoodlum gangs made attempts to destroy equipment in offices of the Voice of the Federation; longshoremen and a seaman were slugged on Pier 32 on September 15; a week later the body of a seaman was found floating in the Bay; on September 30, five union seamen were attacked near Pier 22. One was stabbed.

VIGILANTISM IN AMADOR

Since December, 1934, the miners of Jackson conducted a stubborn fight against the Mother Lode mining companies. Vigilantism ran rampant. On May 1 gas bombs were thrown among a crowd of picketers, including many women and children. These attacks were perpetrated by the Mother Lode Vigilante Committee who made the following statement: "From now on the vigilante committee will be known by its deeds and not by its words." One hundred and sixty workers were arrested during six months on charges growing out of the attempt of picketers to defend themselves against vigilante attacks. On May 12, the picket lines were augmented by a large delegation of trade unionists from the Bay area and on that occasion the Mother Lode Vigilante Committee again assaulted the lines.

EUREKA LUMBER STRIKE

Immediately upon calling of the walk-out by the Timber and Sawmill Workers' Union in May, the Mayor of Eureka, members of the Redwood Association and American Legionnaires called for a vigilante committee of 1000 to smash the strike. The vigilantes met regularly and practically took over the town. Hundreds were injured. Quilliam Kaarte and Harold Edlund were slain. Vigilantes were given badges and searched every car going into the city.

AGRICULTURAL WORKERS

In October, 1933, during the now famous cotton strike involving 15,000, one of the most vicious and bloody attacks in the history of California was made by a wild vigilante mob in Pixley against a peaceful meeting of strikers. Two strikers, Hernandez and Davilla were shot and killed. In June, 1935, when the field workers around Tulare were talking organization into the AFL, the growers again began a new reign of terrorization.

In January, 1935, during the lettuce strike in Imperial Valley, Paul Knight of Santa Maria and Elfred Hamaker of Westmoreland were shot by vigilantes. With the incoming lettuce season, Sheriff Ware already has made provocative statements encouraging the organization of a new vigilante terror to prevent any organization of the agricultural workers in Imperial Valley.

In Sonoma County, when apple pickers went out on strike, big business organized a vigilante committee, met in Cotati, and laid full plans for breaking the strike. An August meeting in Santa Rosa, called to rally support for the strike, was packed with vigilantes carrying clubs and guns. Speakers on the platform were attacked, the meeting was dispersed and open threats were made that "nothing will be allowed to interfere with the picking of apples." The next day vigilante machine gun threats were sent to the strike leaders. And before the month was over, two workers, one a member of the Santa Rosa Central Labor Council, were forcibly taken from their homes, tarred and feathered and marched through the streets of Santa Rosa.

OTHER ATTACKS

While the main attacks have been launched against these four groups, militants in other unions have also been threatened. A fur worker, during the strike in Los Angeles, was attacked in front of his home. Two members of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers received threatening vigilante letters. In Oakland, during the warehousemen's strike at the Santa Cruz cannery, thugs attempted to raid the union kitchen. In April, 1935, in Richmond, vigilantes met in celebration, called themselves the "leaders of good government and of law and order" and decided to ask the San Francisco police department for aid in instruction in strikebreaking methods.

This encouragement of lawless vigilantism has a bearing on our entire life and existence. It must become our immediate business. Shall we allow this menace to suppress our freedom to organize, to strike, to picket? Our unions are at stake, and we must do something about it!

What has happened to the anti-vigilante resolution passed by the State Federation of Labor convention in San Diego? Following the action of the convention the San Francisco District Council of the Maritime Federation set up a "Committee of 10" to carry this campaign into all trade unions. This committee circularized all unions with a resolution calling for the initiation of a conference by the Central Labor Council, in order to put into effect the de-

OPEN FORUM

CORRECTION

Los Angeles, Calif.,
January 2, 1936.

Editor, Western Worker:

In the interest of accuracy and fair-play I am writing to you concerning the Hollywood despatch appearing in a recent issue under the signature of Harold J. Solomon. Mr. Solomon says: "After due deliberation the guilds (Screen Writers and Screen Actors) decided it would be branding themselves red to honor the Soviet motion picture envoys by a public reception. So they remained aloof while the Motion Picture Academy dined and wined Moscow's film bosses."

This statement is not only incorrect, it is precisely the opposite of what occurred. The Screen Writers' Guild was willing and anxious to entertain the envoys from the Soviet Union, both as an organization and as separate individuals. Considerable effort was made by certain members to meet and arrange for a reception for Mr. Shumiaty and his companions. And these guild members were informed by associates of the Sovskino visitors that it had been decided they should not accept any invitation from the Screen Writers' Guild, since that might render them open to misinterpretation by the motion picture magnates.

I am writing this letter and asking that the inaccuracy be corrected not only because of the individual error which has been made, but also because I believe that comrades, more than other people, must be careful of the accuracy of their statements, and not leave themselves open to the charge of coloring and distorting facts in order to make a point.

J.A.M.

visions provided for in the convention resolution.

ENDORSEMENTS

The following thirty unions in San Francisco have reported they have endorsed this resolution: Plumbers and Gas Fitters, No. 442; Pharmacists, No. 838; Retail Cleaners and Dyers, No. 18182; Clear Makers, No. 228; Amalgamated Lithographers; Association of Certified Welders S. F. Bay District Lodge; Bookbinders, No. 31-125; Bakery Wagon Drivers, No. 484; Carpenters, No. 483; Painters, No. 1158; Cooks, Pastry Cooks, No. 44; Coopers International, No. 65; Musicians' Union Board of Directors, No. 6; Sausage Makers, No. 203; International Union of Operating Engineers, No. 64; Auto Mechanics, No. 1305; Garment Workers, No. 45; Brewery Workers, No. 7; International Fur Workers, No. 79, plus ten maritime unions on the San Francisco waterfront.

This same resolution was introduced into the San Francisco Central Labor Council on three occasions, and each time was referred to the Executive Council of the State Federation of Labor. On December 15th, representatives of the "Committee of 10" appeared before the executive council demanding action be taken on the resolutions referred to it by the Central Labor Council. They were informed that the Executive Council had already passed a motion declaring the entire membership of the State Federation of Labor as a "Committee of 100,000" to fight vigilantism. They were also informed that the 14 district vice presidents were instructed to put this decision into effect.

THE NEXT STEP

So far so good. What must be the next step? In every local, we must heartily endorse the decision of the executive council to consider the entire membership a committee to fight vigilantism. But what is more vital is to bring the necessary pressure on our district vice presidents to see that action is taken, and taken immediately! If our vice presidents side-step this job, we must initiate these conferences directly through our Central Labor Councils and Federated Trades Councils. To these conferences should be invited all sympathetic organizations so that the greatest number will be involved in the planning of a vigorous anti-vigilante drive.

We cannot just voice our disapproval. We must stop vigilantism. And organized labor must take the lead, because it is most vitally concerned. We must have action, and our action must result in a body of organized workers prepared to defend ourselves from vigilante attacks.
